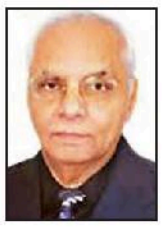
Former IB Officer R.N. Kulkarni murder case

Three taken into custody?



R.N. Kulkarni

Mysuru, Nov. 6 (RK&DM)- A day after retired IB (Intelligence Bureau) Officer R.N. Kulkarni (82) was killed when he was on his routine walk, the Police have reportedly taken three persons into custody for questioning.

Investigation into the death took a twist as the Police, who initially believed it was a road accident, suspected it to be a murder and registered a murder case. Kulkarni was hit by a speeding car when he was walking inside the Manasagangothri campus on Friday evening.

In the absence of any witnesses or definite clues, the Police, who saw the footage captured by a CCTV camera installed close to the crime scene, are on the lookout for the grey-colour car that drove towards the retired IB officer, knocking him down. The car sped away from the spot within seconds of the collision.

Apart from the lone CCTV footage, the Police are relying on the latest technology to trace the car and its occupants. They are rounding off mobile numbers, group mobile numbers (at the same time and same location) on the route on that particular date and time and also the calls made or received at that hour.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

When the glamorous actress Marilyn Monroe died in 1962, the press had a field day carrying lurid stories and photographs. Was she not the sex symbol of the Fifties, wooed by the high and mighty? The public and the press failed to recall that she was a superb actress too, a titan among film stars. All except one news magazine, which published her face and head alone on its cover page. This recognition of a woman's intellectual strength was the greatest tribute paid to this gifted actress by a thoughtful editor.

Similarly, there must be countless women scientists, economists, or writers of high career distinction. They simply do not exist on the male radar. Have we appreciated our own women achievers in this country? Be it sports or science or medicine or literature, how many have been recognised and rewarded? The Bharat Ratnas and other national awards have been showered on men who excelled in their field. A mere five women — two of them politicians — have been selected for national awards when we have had illustrious women scientists, sportspersons, writers, economists, engineers, educationists, freedom fighters — the list is endless.

We gush over our women who became Miss World or Miss Universe, but do not celebrate a tax expert who became the Chief Economist of the International Monetary Fund. Nor a scientist who successfully launched the Agni-V missile project or led a medical team to Bhopal after the gas tragedy. While we applaud women who won beauty pageants, we ignore achievers like Avani Chaturvedi who piloted a fighter aircraft by herself, or Mary Kom who made India proud by her boxing skills or Saina Nehwal who became the first Indian woman to become a world champion in badminton.

Captain Lakshmi Sahgal is the best example of misguided male perception of women in India. She was a fiery participant in the Indian independence movement as an officer of the Indian National Army. She led many of its campaigns against the British and was even taken prisoner in Burma during World War II. Yet, the public only viewed her as the mistress of freedom fighter Subhas Chandra Bose. Public perception of this extraordinary woman was sad, if not disgraceful.

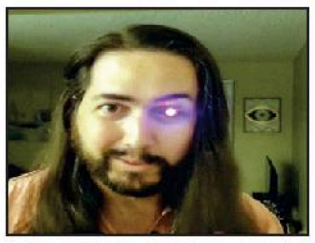
US man loses eye to cancer, creates prosthetic eye



US: Losing an eye due to cancer could be one of the toughest moments in one's life and may also lead to depression. But there are some people who want to fight all odds and turn them in their favour. One such person is a 33-year-old man Brian Stanley from the US.

An engineer, Stanley lost one eye to cancer but instead of losing hope he turned his disability into 'eye-catching' innovation. He transformed his prosthetic eyeball into a functioning flashlight. His right eye gives out a beam of light, making him appear like a robot or android in a science fiction movie.

He also posted a video on Instagram featuring his prosthetic eye. People compared him to Arnold Schwarzenegger in the Terminator films, where his robotic eye has the same glow. He dubs the innovation as 'titanium skull lamp' and says it is perfect for reading in dark and does not get hot. The prosthetic eye is powered by a battery that has a life span of 20 hours.

World's longest passenger train is 1.9-km long

Switzerland: A 100 coaches, 25 sections, 2-kilometre length — that's a train that has just claimed to be the world's longest passenger rake. The train made its maiden trip along a scenic route through the Alps on Saturday, said the Swiss railway company that operated it.

Rhaetian Railway ran the 1.9-km-long train from Preda to Berguen along Albula/Bernina route, one of the spectacular tracks. Composed of 100 coaches and 25 separable multiple-unit trains of the latest type, 'Capricorn', the train ran through 22 tunnels and across 48 bridges, including the curved Landwasser Viaduct, on mountainous route that was designated a UNESCO World Heritage site in 2008. The weight of train was around 2,990 tonnes and journey covering 25-odd kms took over an hour.

VOICE OF THE READER

Give autonomy, special status to University of Mysore

Sir,

This has reference to the news 'University of Mysore to be limited to Mysuru city, district' (SOM dated Oct. 10). The University of Mysore (UoM) is the first University in the Princely State of Mysore, established in 1916, which had its jurisdiction over the entire Princely State. Thanks to the then Mysore Maharaja Nalwadi Krishnaraja Wadiyar and also due to the far-sightedness and dedication of several highly qualified academicians who adorned the chair of Vice-Chancellor, the UoM was internationally recognised.

Even today, young foreigners are studying in the Mysuru campus of the University and also in the constituent and affiliated colleges. Several foreign students have stayed in the international students' hostel, situated near Crawford Hall.

Also students (both Indian and foreign) who obtained their degrees are spread all over the world and several of them have occupied key positions. Similarly, several academicians (professors, associate professors, assistant professors, lecturers) working under various faculties of the University are attending international conferences, seminars etc., hosted by several foreign universities and have presented their research papers.

Research papers of many academicians of the University of Mysore have been published in various international journals. Even now, most of the Indian and foreign students prefer to study at the University of Mysore.

As reported in SOM dated Oct. 10, new model Varsities will be established in Mandya, Chamarajanagar, Kodagu and Hassan and the jurisdiction of the UoM will be restricted to Mysuru city and district.

True, the National Education Policy-2020 should be adopted in Karnataka. But is there any justification to curtail the name, fame, activity and jurisdiction of the University of Mysore only to Mysuru city and Mysuru district for the sake of National Education Policy? No doubt, this will tarnish the image of the over century-old University.

The Government of Karnataka should not treat the University of Mysore on par with other new model Universities to be established.

The Government should give weightage and special status to the University of Mysore. In order to continue the international status of the UoM, the Government should merge the Karnataka State Open University (KSOU) with UoM (the erstwhile Institute of Correspondence and Continuing Education was part of UoM), apart from offering regular degree and diploma courses for those students residing in Mysuru city and Mysuru district.

Further, total autonomy should be given to the University in order to retain its past glory and flourish among the top Universities of the world.

I request the Higher Education Minister to bring necessary amendments to the Karnataka State Universities Act, 2000 and also to the Karnataka Open Universities Act, in this regard.

Further, I urge like-minded academicians and alumni of the University of Mysore to pressurise the State Government authorities in this regard.

Damaged open manhole posing danger at Naidunagar

Mysuru, Nov. 6 (MK&KS)- A damaged open manhole at Naidunagar (Hale Kesare) junction is posing danger to motorists and residents of the locality.

Residents complained that the manhole has been damaged since two months and none of the MCC officials have bothered to repair it so far.

Pointing out that there are houses near the junction and hundreds of vehicles pass on this road daily, the residents said that elected representatives and MCC officials too pass by this open manhole but never bothered to get it repaired. They said that a few persons have sustained injuries after falling into the manhole during night time and added that if at all a child falls into it, the kid cannot be seen.

Urging the authorities concerned to take up repair works at the earliest, the residents also threatened of staging protest in front of the respective MCC Zonal Office.

MLC donates Rs. 2.5 lakh to repair Lift at Mini Vidhana Soudha

Mysuru, Nov. 6 (TRR)- MLC C.N. Manjegowda has given a personal financial assistance of Rs.2.5 lakh for the repair of the Lift at Mini Vidhana Soudha, which is defunct for the last two years. Many Government offices including the Tahsildar's Office are in the upper floors of the building. To help specially-abled and aged persons, Lift facility has been provided in the building. Though it became defunct years ago, it wasn't repaired and because of this many people are finding it difficult to climb the steps. Recently, people had brought this to the notice of MLC Manjegowda, who himself had seen them struggling to climb the steps, during one of his visits to the Taluk Office. Now, the MLC has responded to the problems faced by the public on humanitarian grounds by donating an amount of Rs. 2.5 lakh needed for Lift repair. He also gave a cheque towards the same to Tahsildar B.N. Girish.

Educated people fall prey to cyber frauds in Mysuru

Rs. 9,55,974 polished from the accounts of doctor, teacher and a professional

Mysuru, Nov. 6 (BCT)- From crypto to credit card frauds, techies, bank professionals, teachers, graduates and professionals comprise the largest pool of victims of online scams. As per a Police estimate, nearly 95 percent of cyber complaints are lodged by educated people and working professionals.

It is a myth that the educated will not fall prey to cyber frauds. Scamsters use their skills to convince victims to invest in fraudulent schemes or install fake apps giving remote access or reveal confidential details such as OTP. Often, victims transfer more and more till they empty their accounts in the hope of getting the entire amount listening to false assurances.

Cyber criminals convince them in such a way that they easily share OTP or click on the dubious links sent by the crooks. Take the example of this doctor from the city who lost Rs. 5.98 lakh from his bank account as he was asked by cyber criminals to click a link to update his PAN.

OTP update con

Conmen sent a message to Dr. K.N. Veeresh Kumar, a doctor operating from N.R. Mohalla, asking him to click a link to update his PAN. Unaware of the criminal intent, the doctor clicked on the link and as directed in the message, he entered the OTP. Within moments, Rs. 5.98 lakh was withdrawn from his account.

S. Sumathi, a working professional and a resident of Lokanayakanagar in Metagalli too received a message on her mobile that she has to immediately update her PAN by clicking the link. She too opened the link and updated the OTP and Rs. 74,987 was stolen from her account.

Bank App closed trick

Likewise, Sushma Shivakumar, a resident of Ramapura in Hanur taluk of Chamarajanagar district got a message on her WhatsApp that her SBI YONO App account has been closed and she must update her PAN and enter the OTP within 10 minutes otherwise the App facility will be permanently disabled.

Panicked by the wordings of the message, Sushma Shivakumar clicked on the link and updated her PAN. She was directed to a page where she had to enter the OTP that was sent to her mobile phone. The moment she entered the OTP, Rs. 1,83,987 was withdrawn from her bank account.

House for rent fraud

The case of M. Baby Lathamani, a teacher and a resident of Vidyaranyapuram is unique as she had advertised in magicbricks.com, an online platform, about the availability of her house for rent. After placing the advertisement, the teacher got a call from Mob: 86370-03487 and the caller expressed his desire to take the house on rent.

Talking impressively, the caller told Baby Lathamani that he liked her house and wanted to send the advance money as he did not want anyone else to book the house. Lathamani too was carried away by the conman's words and shared her bank account details. The fraudster then tricked her to enter the OTP with which he withdrew Rs. 99,000 from her account within minutes.

Homemaker cheated of Rs. 1 lakh

Mysuru, Nov. 6- In yet another incident of cheating on the promise of getting job, a home maker of the city reportedly lost Rs. 1 lakh to a conman who promised her of getting her an Anganwadi job. P. Roopa, aged 29 years, a resident of Siddiquinagar, is the one who lost money.

Roopa got introduced to one Rehman of Doddakanya in Nanjangud taluk through her friend Sneha about 6 months ago, when Rehman told her that he would get her an Anganwadi job as he knew top officials of the Women and Child Welfare Department and asked to give him Rs. 1 lakh as Commission for the same. Believing Rehman, Roopa gave him Rs. 1 lakh. But as days passed by, Roopa, who failed to get the job, got suspicious and called Rehman over his mobile phone and sought return of Rs. 1 lakh which she had paid to him. But Rehman in turn, abused her in foul language, following which Roopa lodged a complaint with the jurisdictional N.R. Police.

Pathak Developers MD arrested in Mumbai

Mysuru, Nov. 6 (RK&BCT)- The City Crime Branch (CCB) Police have arrested Srihari Pathak, Managing Director (MD) of the city's well-known Pathak Developers (P) Ltd., on charges of cheating flat buyers.

He has been accused of collecting money from many flat buyers and failing to deliver the flats as per the agreement signed. Srihari Pathak remained absconding for several months and cases have been booked against him at many Courts in Mysuru and customers even approached the Consumer Redressal Forum.

He was arrested by the V.V. Puram Police in 2019 and had come out on bail. After that he was absconding and he failed to attend Court hearings. Over 17 arrest warrants had been issued against him.

Following this, the Court had directed the Police to arrest Srihari Pathak and produce him before it in a cheating case registered against him at V.V. Puram Police Station. The CCB and Narasimharaja ACP constituted a team to arrest Srihari Pathak and the team managed to trace him to Andheri in Mumbai and arrested him on Nov. 3.

Several people had approached the Police against Srihari Pathak and they have alleged that they have been cheated of crores of rupees, their hard-earned money. Pathak promised delivery of flats on time at the time of booking and advance payment but reneged later. More than 40 cases have been booked against him.

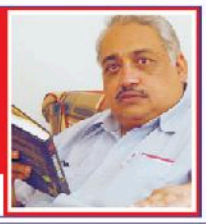
Over a cup of evening Tea



By Dr. K. Javeed Nayeem, MD

A mother first and everything else, only later!

Yesterday, I was both delighted and distressed too, upon reading a piece of news on the front page of one of the newspapers that I read every day. That report was about a high-ranking lady IAS Officer of the Kerala cadre, who chose to bring her toddler son with her to the valedictory function of a private film festival she was attending, which is why I was delighted. Not many women in similar positions do something like this, even if they have little children who naturally expect every minute of their mothers' attention round-the-clock.

The duo made a pretty picture, cuddling up with each other, oblivious of everything that was happening around them. The mother lovingly pecking the cheek of her child and the look of undiluted glee on the face of the kid, said it all and it was there for all to see!

The report went on to say that the lady came under sharp criticism from some quarters for her perfectly natural and harmless act, which is why I felt very distressed. I assert, that my angst was not misplaced in any way because the lady was attending what was only a private function, as an invitee and not an official government event, in her capacity as an officer. And, since what she was attending was a film festival, she must have thought that her three-and-a-half-year-old son would certainly enjoy some of the entertainment programmes that would invariably be interspersed in such an event.

Not just perfectly natural and normal thinking for any mother but in my opinion, a very essential bonding act for both mother and child, especially if the former happens to be a very busy working lady with very limited time to spend with her family. And, it needs no stressing here that any person wearing his or her civil service shoes, would naturally only be one such busybody.

We all need to remember two very important facts of life here. Firstly, that all government and private officials too, need to spend time with their family members, beyond the pressures and demands of their working lives and in doing so, this privilege and their privacy need to be accepted and respected too.

The second thing to keep in mind is that whatever a lady is professionally, when she has little children at home, she is foremost a mother and there is nothing wrong in her keeping them among her foremost priorities. And, there is also nothing unusual if her little children in turn, expect her to give them her undivided attention at all times. They cannot be expected to understand that there can be more pressing things that can draw away their mother from being with them. In doing this they are well within their rights!

So, in the case of this lady we are talking about, it is the people who found fault with her action who certainly did something wrong in casting aspersions on her and it is they who certainly need to correct their perspectives and perceptions. These days, just because more and more women are choosing to take up jobs for various reasons and sometimes compulsions too, it does not mean that they should be denied the privilege of giving priority to their roles as mothers where their children are concerned.

In fact, our children are the most important members of our society and they deserve the maximum attention from all of us, at all times, to ensure that they become the torch-bearers of our civilised state. Only then can this world become a better place for all of us to live in. And, to make this happen, can we think of someone other than their own mothers to play this crucial role? Do think about it!

Interestingly, this incident reminds me about something that happened long ago in my own life, which I have written about it in one of my earlier articles too.

While serving as a young physician, attached to a rural mission hospital in a very small village, I was invited as the chief guest for a primary school function. My then two-year-old daughter, Sarah, insisted that I should take her along with me, which I did without much persuasion, because I thought that she would certainly enjoy interacting with all the other children there.

As I began my speech, she began insisting that I should carry her in my arms, which too I did, because I was a very doting dad then, as I am even now! That is when in a loud voice, she announced into the microphone that her mom had asked her to remind me to bring her back home immediately after the function.

While this innocent remark had its own humorous effect and drew much applause and laughter from the audience, what it did to me a little later became the cause for much embarrassment for me. After the function was over, when I politely turned down the request of the organisers to stay back for the lunch they had arranged, as I usually do, one of the teachers remarked that I was perhaps in a hurry to go home because I was very scared of my wife!

Japan, France companies in race to set up planetarium

State-of-the-art planetarium to come up at foot of Chamundi Hill on University of Mysore land

Mysuru, Nov. 6 (GA&DM)- The works on the country's first state-of-the-art planetarium to come up at the land belonging to the University of Mysore (UoM) at the foot of Chamundi Hill is expected to commence soon as the global tender process has been completed.

The tender has been shortlisted and Japan and France-based companies are in the race to bag the tender. The hi-tech Planetarium, along with Cosmology Education and Research Centre called 'COSMOS', will come up at the Chamundi foothill, for which the UoM had signed a Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) with the Indian Institute of Astrophysics, Bengaluru in December last year.

A technical team of the Indian Institute of Astrophysics visited the planetarium projects done by the companies that have been shortlisted in Japan and France and gathered inputs on the functioning and maintenance of the planetariums there.

Later, the team presented a report to the Union Government following which one of the two companies will be formally awarded the final contract for the execution of this astronomy project, which is expected to commence as early as the end of this month.

University of Mysore Vice-Chancellor Prof. G. Hemantha Kumar receiving Union Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman with a bouquet during her visit to Mysuru to lay foundation stone for the Planetarium and COSMOS at the foot of Chamundi Hill (pic. right) on Mar. 6, 2022 as Mysuru-Kodagu MP Pratap Simha looks on.

It may be mentioned here that Union Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman laid the foundation stone for the Planetarium and COSMOS on Mar. 6, 2022. The Centre has sanctioned Rs. 81 crore and Nirmala Sitharaman too has announced Rs. 2 crore out of her MP Local Area Development Fund for this project.

The Cosmology Centre will not only feature an ultra-modern planetarium from where one can watch the beautiful midnight skies at faraway places in real time but also train young minds to use Astrophysics related data gathered from different observatories and telescopes in the country for other applications and useful purposes.

The COSMOS, which hosts India's first planetarium with Digistar 7 system and a Domex Screen is supported by the Department of Science and Technology, Department of Atomic Energy and Department of Space, among others.

The planetarium will not only have the current data but also past data will be available to students where they can use it in a guided way with proper teachers, faculties and scientists.

The planetarium will be the first-of-its-kind in the country to have a DOMEX LED dome with technically advanced displays that "will give a real feel of the night skies." It will also be able to source live data from telescopes all over India as well as archival data.

Astrophysics-related data has its applications even in the fields of transport, health, agriculture and finance. Apart from hosting programmes aimed at promoting young talent, this centre is also expected to attract travellers, particularly school children, from both a scientific and a tourist perspective.

The real-time planetarium with a playback engine will make an extremely powerful tool for the education and training of students as well as teachers. A comprehensive education and public outreach programme will be an integral part of the COSMOS project and the training comprises processing astronomical data, coding, hands-on experience along with systematic documentation of astronomy.

UoM will be the first University in the country to have a planetarium attached to it, though there are over 40 planetariums in the country, including the one at Bengaluru.

Three taken into custody?

Mobile numbers traced by the mobile towers of the area are being screened for more clues by the Police teams.

One of the three teams formed to crack the case is visiting every car garage, service centre and spare part shops in and around the city in a bid to trace the missing car that did not have the registration number plate either on its front or rear end, according to CCTV footage.

Amidst all this, the Police have reportedly taken three persons — whom they suspect to be involved in the case — into custody for questioning, according to Police sources.

Plot to murder days ago

Investigation has revealed that the killers had plotted to eliminate the high-profile retired officer days ago. Adding credence to the theory, Kulkarni's wife is said to have told her family's close friends that some unknown persons followed them whenever they went out of their home in their car.

In the meantime, the Police have intensified their search for the car in question. The Police have sought details from the RTO on a grey coloured sedan of Honda City or Skoda make as the images of the car captured in the CCTV camera resemble these models.

City Police Commissioner Dr. Chandragupta, who visited the spot on Saturday, said that three Police teams under the leadership of N.R. Sub-Division ACP Shivashankar have been formed to trace the absconding car and its occupants.

Pointing out that a murder case has been registered after it became certain that it was a planned killing, he said that the motive behind the killing may not be professional rivalry as Kulkarni retired 23 years ago.

Maintaining that the real motive behind the planned murder is yet to be ascertained, Dr. Chandragupta said that the Police are putting together all material evidence that was gathered from the crime spot.

The Police, apart from launching a hectic search for the missing car, are investigating the case from all angles, he added.

Kulkarni's movement watched for days

In their plan to kill former IB Officer R.N. Kulkarni and make it look like a hit-and-run case, the miscreants reportedly watched the movements of the former IB Officer for several days, before executing their plan on Friday evening.

The killers are said to have followed the car of Kulkarni whenever he ventured out of his home and tracked the roads which he used to regularly walk in the evenings on Manasagangothri campus. They even tracked Kulkarni's other regular outings along with the time he frequents the location. However, the motive behind Kulkarni's killing is not known yet.

JSS Ayurveda Medical College

Convocation: 100 conferred Degrees

Mysuru, Nov. 6 (GA&TRR)- "There is an increased necessity of Doctors across the Globe including India. Those studying Medical Sciences have more responsibility than just getting a Degree," opined AYUSH Ministry's National Commission for Indian System of Medicine Board of Ayurveda President Dr. B.S. Prasad.

He was speaking after inaugurating the Convocation of JSS Ayurveda Medical College, Lalitadripura Road in city on Friday.

"JSS Educational Institutions, apart from providing better basic facilities, are offering quality education and the entire administrative board is working hard in this direction. If so many of you have passed out successfully in examinations, it is only because of the sincere efforts of the teachers who are playing an important role in shaping your future as Doctors. Without teachers' efforts, nothing can be achieved. Hence, I congratulate the entire teaching community," said Dr. B.S. Prasad.

Advising medical students who have obtained Degree to focus on giving quality treatment during the practice period, Dr. Prasad asked them to always continue the focus on quality. "Now-a-days, there is an increased necessity of Doctors not only in India but across the Globe. The COVID pandemic, apart from haunting the humanity, has forced us to learn about taking precautionary measures," he added.

Observing that the life style and food habits of people now have changed considerably compared to the last 15 years, he said that everybody used to finish their dinner early and had a peaceful sleep. But now, with the changed life style, people are sleeping late and getting up late which is causing many diseases. We need to create awareness about these changed life and food habits through our Ayurvedic System of Medicine," said Dr. Prasad.

"The Union Government has recently implemented a programme 'Heal in India; Heal by India' providing opportunities to Indian Health Workers to go to foreign countries in pursuit of their professional ambitions and separate VISAs are being given in this connection. Students should visit foreign countries under this programme, learn about Ayurveda system being practiced there and also have information about the tourism industry of those countries," concluded Dr. Prasad.

Hundred students were conferred with Degree certificates. Rank Holders Shamita and Amaresh were given 'Ayur Vishardha Award' along with cash prizes.

Prekshana and K.M. Seema, who secured 10th rank, were given certificates. S. Shamita was given 'Best outgoing student' and Meghana Patil was given the award of 'Best Internee.' All these students were also felicitated on the occasion.

Dr. C.G. Betsurmath, Executive Secretary, JSS Mahavidyapeetha, R. Mahesh, Director of Medical Education Division, JSS Mahavidyapeetha, Dr. Sarbeswar Kar, Principal, JSS Ayurveda College and others were present.

Taluk-level Mock Youth Parliament competition for PU students held

36 students selected for District-level

Mysuru, Nov. 6 (PM&TRR)- Mock Youth Parliament Competition-2022, which is being organised across the nation, was held at Sri Vanivilasa Urs Girls PU College in city on Thursday.

These competitions are being held with the intention of developing leadership qualities among the students of the country. The taluk-level competition for PU students of aided colleges, was jointly organised by the Ministry of Parliamentary Affairs and PU Education Department.

Inaugurating the competition, Deputy Director of PU Education M.P. Nagamma said that to cultivate leadership qualities among the students is the main intention of Youth Parliament. "This competition will enable students to understand the rights and duties of citizens in a democracy and also the functioning of the Government," she added.

"We have seen the proceedings of Parliament on televisions. Opposition to and criticisms of Government policies are essential as they help in the progress of the country. In this direction, the role of opposition parties is vital for the proper functioning of the Government. A rock needs to receive many blows to become a deity and to get a cultural identity. Similarly, opposition parties have a responsibility to highlight and attack the Government for its failures. This competition is going to shed light on all these issues which will make students more knowledgeable," opined the DDPU.

Sri Vanivilasa Urs Educational Institutions' Educational and Administrative Division Chairman Siddappa said that going by the incidents that have occurred in Parliament proceedings in the last two decades, one gets the feeling they were more like roadside brawls. "But prior to that, Parliament proceedings used to be carried out in a dignified way and Members of Parliament (MPs) used to give constructive suggestions to the Government. But today, there is a decline in values of Parliament proceedings," he lamented.

"According to Economic Intelligence Unit (ECU) report, in the year 2020 India was placed at the 53rd position in Global Democracy Index out of 167 countries. Democratic values are diminishing in India though we are blessed with a good Constitution. It is a tragedy that both the rulers and the people of the country are not respecting the wishes of our Constitution," said Chairman Siddappa.

Observing that the youths have just 12 percent in the present Parliament, Siddappa said that there is also gender discrimination with only 78 women MPs out of 543 Parliament members.

"Rishi Sunak, an Indian origin, has been elected as the Prime Minister of Britain. In British Parliament, opposition party members silently listen to the speeches of ruling party members and offer constructive criticisms and give proper advice. But such instances are very less in our democracy," he observed.

36 students for District level contest

"At 2 students from every college, 42 students from 21 Aided PU Colleges and 8 students from our college participated in the competition. Since more students were needed, 8 students from our college were drafted into competition. 12 students have been selected from the Mysuru taluk to participate at the District level," said Sri Vanivilasa Urs Girls PU College Political Science Lecturer T.K. Hemalatha.

"Competitions for Aided PU College students were held in our college. WORD OF THE DAY

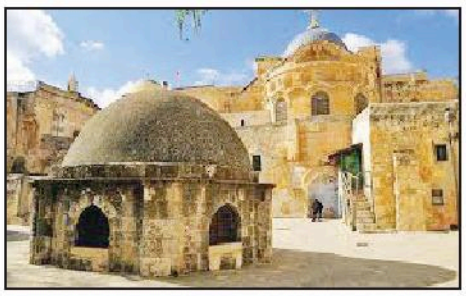
Sepulchre



Pronunciation: SEP-ul-ker.
Meaning: Sepulchre is an old-fashioned word for a tomb or other place of burial.
Origin: The history of sepulchre is a grave tale. The earliest evidence in our files traces sepulchre (also spelled sepulcher) back to Middle English around the beginning of the 13th century. It was originally spelled sepulcre, as it was in Anglo-French. Like many words borrowed into English from French, sepulchre has roots buried in Latin; in this case the root is sepelire, a verb meaning "to bury." Sepultus, the past participle of sepelire, gave us—also by way of Anglo-French—the related noun sepulture, a synonym of burial and sepulchre, but one whose contemporary use is much rarer.
Example: "Unlike Romans, though, for some 3,000 years of their history what Egyptians mostly left behind was tombs. A pyramid is a sepulchre for the rich and powerful, but they liked to be buried with their possessions—so it's also a gigantic 'X marks the spot.' The sands and cities of Egypt are riddled with three millennia of buried treasure..." — Christopher Hart

THE ODD WORD

Sagathy

Light blend of silk and cotton or wool.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

See eye to eye

Meaning: The phrase 'See eye to eye' is used when you view something in the same way as others do, or that you agree with someone about something.
Origin: While many idioms are relatively new, the origin of the idiom 'See eye to eye' is quite old; in fact, it's ancient and is found in the Bible. In Isaiah 52:8, we read "The voice of your watchmen—they lift up their voice; together they sing for joy; for eye to eye they see the return of the Lord to Zion."
Example: "I'm glad that we see eye to eye on the project's details."
